Dear Stan:-

On top of all of my other gratuitous suggestions to you over the past ten days, I am writing here primarily to suggest two more people at CIA whom I hold in high regard, in case you should wish to make contact with them for whatever you may have in mind. Needless to add, I do not have the slightest idea exactly what their current duties may be at the Agency.

I believe, is a quite senior person at CIA who has held positions of major responsibility. I have it on pretty good authority (most recently in a brief conversation with William Colby at a conference at the U.S. Air Force Academy last Friday, 11 February) that played a fundamentally crucial role for the Agency in the business with the Senate Select (Church) Committee in 1976. was born and raised here in Lexington as a member of the family that is so greatly distinguished in the history of Kentucky. He holds a law degree from the University of Kentucky, and practiced law here for awhile before and/or immediately after World War II.

he is one of those rare career civil servants who both thinks very clearly and writes very well.

because [] edited those books and gave them much of the literary quality that they possess. She did the same thing for some other notable books, all of which implies that she is a great editor. But, more than this, [] she is a super-fine human being, and more than just a little bit knowledgeable about international affairs. STAT

This concludes my gratuitous suggestions for the moment.

Warmest personal regards,

Vincent Davis
